

Aisha Rahman

Community nonprofit coordinator and federal funding partner

Aisha coordinates a small fictional nonprofit community hub in Nova Scotia. She has never worked for government and has no criminal, military or regulatory history. Her federal interactions mainly arise from contribution agreements and community participation: the organization receives grants from Employment and Social Development Canada, Women and Gender Equality Canada and Canadian Heritage; she joins consultations, submits program reports, volunteers in a federally supported newcomer program and answers evaluation surveys. During 2023 wildfires she requested federal logistics support for the hub. Earlier she used Canada Student Loans. She files taxes annually, votes, holds a passport and made one recent trip abroad. She does not own a firearm or boat and has not used a federal health or housing program.

Professional experience

Program coordinator

Harbour Neighbours Community Hub (fictional) · 2018-present

Coordinates federal contribution agreements, community programming, volunteers and outcome reporting.

Community outreach worker

Fictional regional nonprofit · 2013-2018

Supported youth, newcomers and low-income households.

Administrative assistant

Fictional local cooperative · 2011-2013

Maintained membership and event records.

Education

Bachelor of Community Development, fictional Canadian university, 2011

Profile

Community-program coordinator focused on food security, newcomer inclusion and volunteer development.

Community Service

Volunteer mentor in a federally supported newcomer program

Participant in federal consultations on charitable funding and food security

Canada Student Loan and Grant recipient

Member of a municipal accessibility advisory group

Additional Life Context

Canadian-born

Annual tax filer and federal elector

Passport holder with infrequent international travel

No firearm, boat, federal employment or criminal history

SYNTHETIC TEST PERSONA. Created solely to test the My Info survey. This is not a biography, official record, or confirmation that any institution holds personal information.