

Sophie Tremblay

Former federal employee dismissed, reinstated after grievance, then departed

Sophie worked in federal program administration from 2008 to 2024. After several poor-performance assessments and an internal administrative investigation, Employment and Social Development Canada dismissed her in 2022. Her union grievance alleged failures in accommodation and procedural fairness; adjudication led to reinstatement in 2023 with back pay and corrected leave records. A renewed reliability screening followed. She requested her personnel and investigation files, sought corrections to personal information, and later left government in 2024 after another performance dispute. She received Employment Insurance, had federal pay and pension adjustments, and participated in employee surveys. Earlier she used Canada Student Loans and later used a federally supported home-buying program. She is divorced and had a child-support reassessment. She files taxes, votes, has a passport and travelled internationally, but has no military, criminal, firearms or boating history.

Professional experience

Senior program officer, reinstated

Employment and Social Development Canada · 2023-2024

Returned after grievance adjudication; handled regional contribution agreements before leaving government.

Senior program officer

Employment and Social Development Canada · 2015-2022

Administered grants and contributions; dismissed following a prolonged performance-management process.

Program assistant and analyst

Service Canada / Employment and Social Development Canada · 2008-2015

Supported regional program delivery and reporting.

Administrative coordinator

Fictional private association · 2005-2008

Member services and office administration.

Profile

Bilingual program administrator with experience in federal grants, service standards and regional operations.

Employment Events

Dismissed for poor performance in 2022

Filed union grievance and related adjudication

Education

- Bachelor of Public Administration, fictional Quebec university, 2005
- Canada Student Loan recipient

- Reinstated with back pay in 2023
- Personnel and leave records corrected after access and privacy requests
- Departed federal employment in 2024

Additional Life Context

- Canadian-born
- Divorced around 2020 with child-support reassessment
- Former participant in a federal home-buying support program
- Passport holder, tax filer and federal elector

SYNTHETIC TEST PERSONA. Created solely to test the My Info survey. This is not a biography, official record, or confirmation that any institution holds personal information.